So^th. Carolina GAZETTE.

MONDAY October 29, 1753.

PARIS, July 13.

THE treaty with the parliament, thro' the interpoſition of the prince of Conti, is for the preſent at an end, the grand chamber having refuſed to take any deciſive ſtep 'till the re union of the whole body. The chancellor has thereupon written to them in very ſtrong terms, and forbid them to aſſemble except as an ordinary court of juſtice.

The parliament of Normandy, it is ſaid, is drawing up freſh remonſtrances, which they are reſolved to preſent to the king, conformable to the arret of the 26th of June laſt.

Frankfort, July 9. It is reported here, that the troubleſome affair of Eaſt-Friezland is in a fair way of being accommodated; and, as ſoon as this can be brought about, it is believed the election of a king of the Romans will meet with no farther difficulty. M. Voltaire, having giving ſatisfaction to the court of Berlin, is diſcharged from his arreſt, and ſet out for Manheim.

Paris S. Germain, July 13. Laſt Monnay was publiſhed an arret of the parliament ſitting at Pontoiſe, which ſuppreſſes a pamphlet, entitled, "The very humble remonſtrances of the "parliament to the king."

The next day a ſentence of the chatelet was publiſhed for ſuppreſſing a pamphlet, entitled, "The repreſentations made "to the chancellor, the provoſt of Paris, his lieutenant, the "officers of the chatelet and preſidial ſeat of Paris;" whereby they who have any copies, are enjoined to bring them to the regiſter of the chatelet, and to inform againſt the printer and venders of ſuch pamphlet.

London, July 24. The chancellor of France has wrote a letter, by the king's order, to the grand chamber of the parliament at Pontoiſe, intimating, 'That the king has hitherto behaved towards them with the indulgence of a father; but that nothing leſs than a ſuitable return, by a ſubmiſſion dictated by their prudence and wiſdom, can prevent his majeſty's treating them for the future with the juſt ſeverity of a king, &c.'

By the ſame letters we have advice, that the prince of Conti having given aſſurance of the recal of all the exiled members of the parliament, if thoſe of the grand chamber would reſume their uſual functions, and make an act of ſubmiſſion denoting their reſpect and deference to the king's will; the members of the grand chamber declared, "That they could not take any "ſtep without the concurrence of their exiled brethren, nor think "of tarniſhing the honor they had acquired, by ſeparating from "them, &c." So the prince of Conti, deſpairing of ſucceſs in the undertaking his zeal and good will prompted him to, has quitted his caſtle of Vaureal, and retired to the iſle of Adam.

London, July 26. According to the beſt accounts from Vienna, there is nothing more certain, than that a treaty of great importance has been concluded with the court of Modena, by which the ſyſtem of that court is entirely altered; but what the the terms of that treaty are, tho' ſome time ratified, to all but the cabinet miniſters, remains yet a ſecret.

London, July 28. We hear that thurſday the 23d of Auguſt is fixed for trying the three ſchemes for finding out the Longitude, in the court room of the admiralty-office, and that a great number of eminent perſonages, admirals, commanders, and mathematicians have promiſed their attendance.

We hear that ſeveral veſſels are going to be fitted up with well-boats, in order to ſail for the Weſt-Indies to catch Turtles, which it is thought will be of great advantage to the undertakers, as that fiſh is at preſent ſo much admired by people of fortune.

We hear that the diſcovery of the North-Weſt paſſage is not laid aſide, a gentleman of great note in the mathematics having offered ſome reaſons, and a ſcheme for the diſcovery of the ſame, which having met with approbation, will be carried into execution.

Genoa, July 7. Tho' the treaty lately concluded between the imperial court and the duke of Modena, has not yet been made public, the following is look'd upon as an authentic copy of the principal articles of it.

1ſt, That the duke of Modena ſhall be made perpetual governour of the Milaneze, and vicar-general of the houſe of Auſtria in Italy, in which quality the imperial court is to aſſign him an appointment of 90,000 florins per annum, upon condition that he ſhall always have on foot a body of 4000 troops, at the diſpoſal of the empreſs queen.

2dly, That her imperial majeſty ſhall have a right to put garriſons of her troops into the citadels of Mirandola and Reggio, and the caſtle of Maſſa Carrara, upon ſuch conditions as ſhall be further agreed upon, with regard to their maintenance, &c.

3dly, That in conſequence of this treaty, the arch duke Peter Leopold III. ſon of their imperial majeſties, ſhall marry the daughter of the hereditary prince of Modena, by his marriage with the heireſs of Maſſa-Carrara: That if this laſt princeſs has no male iſſue from her preſent marriage, the dominions of the houſe of Maſſa Carrara, and the dutchy of Mirandola ſhall be given up as a portion for the young princeſs, future ſpouſe of the archduke Peter Leopold; but that if on the contrary there ſhould be male iſſue from that marriage, then the duke of Modena ſhall yield to that princeſs by way of portion, the eſtates which he is poſſeſſed of, and thoſe which he has any pretenſions to, in Hungary; and that in caſe the male branch of the houſe of Eſt ſhould become extinct, then the eſtates which the duke of Modena is now in poſſeſſion of, ſhall devolve of right to the houſe of Auſtria.

London, July 31. A few days ſince were proved at Woolwich, by Jefferion Miles, Eſq; proof maſter general of England, 100 fine pieces of large cannon, caſt by John Fuller, Eſq; of Suſſex, for his majeſty the king of Sardinia.

On Friday laſt his majeſty's ſhip Crown, the hon. Capt. Barrington, commander, ſailed from Cowes for the Coaſt of Guinea, to reinforce the ſhips of war already there.

They write from Peterſburgh, that according to a liſt lately publiſhed by authority, the troops of the Ruſſian empire conſiſt of 250,000 horſe and foot, as well diſciplined as any in Europe, and 100,000 coſſacks and kalmoucs. The fleet is compoſed of 43 ſhips of the line, 300 gallies, and 160 ſmaller veſſels. The number of ſeamen is computed at 40,000, and the navy is divided into the white, blue, and red ſquadrons, under the high admiral Prince Apraxin, five vice, and three rear admirals.

The negotiation with the court of Modena is magnified as one of the greateſt ſtrokes in politicks this age has remembered. It is believed certain courts in Germany are ſo ſtunned by it, that they will no longer make any difficulty of accepting the terms propoſed to them.

London, Auguſt 4. Letters from Francfort on the Oder adviſe, that the locuſts multiply ſo faſt in that neighbourhood, that the country people have reſolved to get in the ſtanding corn before it is ripe, leſt it ſhould be all devoured by thoſe inſects.

They write from the Hague, that Sir Hanbury Williams ſet out from thence the 1ſt inſtant for England; and that they had received advice from London, that the court of France had interpoſed its good offices, in order to accommodate the miſunderſtanding between our court and that of Berlin, in relation to the Silefia loan.

We are informed an account was brought to town this morning, that 30 ſail of ſhips belonging to the D——h nation, are ſeized at Liverpoole and ſome other of our Weſtern ports, for carrying on an illicit trade, &c.

Some private letters from Madrid ſay, that the treaty lately concluded between the courts of Vienna and Modena does not appear to be much reliſhed there, and is believed to be the principal occaſion of ſeveral cabinet councils lately held.

Some of the men of war in the River Medway are ordered to be got ready for the ſea.
